Message from Mr. Degitz.....

“A Simple Yet Powerful Question”

I want to spend my time this month communicating directly with parents. I know as your child progresses through their K-12 education, you likely hear less and less about their school day. Thankfully, your child has become more independent and it is easy to assume that no news is good news. As a parent of two myself, I completely understand! However, I encourage you to ask your child how his/her school day goes as much as you are able. As the principal at Huntington North, I have the privilege to visit many classrooms and be around our building every day. It is incredible to observe the learning that takes place around our school and the way that students are engaged. While we can always improve and are constantly striving to do so, I think you will find many positive experiences that your child is getting.

As I talk with parents and community members, I have often had people share that they did not know all that we offer and do here at HNHS. In a large, comprehensive high school, we offer opportunities to today’s students that previous generations had never thought of. For those that may be unaware, we offer unique classes such as Forensics, American Sign Language, Biomedical Sciences, Agribusiness Management, Digital Design, Entrepreneurship, Human and Social Sciences, Radio, Television, Principals of Engineering, Mechanical Drafting and Design, Criminal Justice, Welding, and more! I could probably fill multiple pages with more programs and courses, as well as the countless stories of growth and excitement that occurs within them.

Ultimately, we count it as a privilege to serve your child at Huntington North. I hope you are able to uncover a bit more about your child’s experience here and get a little insight into what I have the opportunity to see here each day as you ask, “How was your day at school?”

7 apps that could cause harm to our students

New to Huntington North’s Career & Technical Education (CTE) program’s this year is a half day welding program. In previous years students interested in welding could take a course at Heartland Career Center, but with the expanded weld bay at the Huntington County Community Learning Center and 15 students signed up for the course, it made sense to offer the programREAD MORE
